

The Ford Field & River Club

A new era of Lowcountry golfing excellence with no tee times.

RICHMOND HILL, GEORGIA: Located a half-hour from the historic streets of Savannah, Georgia, along the scenic Ogeechee River, The Ford Field & River Club is the crown jewel of the Lowcountry sporting lifestyle. This exclusive, member-owned community is now embarking on a $22.5 million amenity transformation poised to elevate its award-winning Pete Dye golf course to new heights of acclaim and reaffirm The Ford's position as the country's premier coastal sporting club.

A VISION FOR THE FUTURE

At the heart of The Ford's transformation is the expansion and enhancement of its world-class facilities, including the Clubhouse, Sports Barn, and Lake Dye Grill, all on the heels of the newly renovated Main House. This historic residence, once the winter retreat of Henry and Clara Ford and listed on the National Register of Historic Places, has been thoughtfully updated to provide members and guests with an upscale experience that bridges past and present.

The golf practice facility is set to become another focal point of this transformation. An expanded practice tee and a redesigned practice green promise a comprehensive preparation experience, simulating a variety of golfing challenges. The addition of a creatively integrated putting course, originating from the new dining patio and winding past cozy fire pits, introduces a communal space where families and friends can gather and create lasting memories.

A TALE OF TWO NINES

Golfers embarking on a round at The Ford are treated to a special experience. The front nine, with its parkland-style layout, offers a serene landscape of towering oaks, shimmering lakes, and the community's Southern-style homes. In contrast, the back nine presents a thrilling challenge with its links-style design set on a distinct peninsula. Here, golfers meet with a very different world—tall grasses, birds, and estuary views.

“One thing I love about our course is its setup,” said David Engram, director of golf. “When you walk behind the Clubhouse and see the entire back nine, it really is an ‘ah ha’ moment.”

NO TEE TIMES, NO RUSH

At The Ford, the golfing experience transcends the ordinary, thanks to Pete Dye's masterful design. Golfers are invited to engage with the sport in its purest form—with no tee times and no hurry, just the game and the player, set against the stunning backdrop of the Lowcountry. This course philosophy ensures that each round is as much about enjoying the moment as it is about the challenge of the game. ■
