ROSEWOOD CORDEVALLE

"A great test of golf." – BRITTANY LINCICOME, LPGA SUPERSTAR
WITH $8 MILLION IN CAREER EARNINGS

SAN MARTIN, CALIFORNIA: "There's a difference between hosting a tournament and a championship. Any course that can lay claim to a major has earned the highest of accolades," said Robert Trent Jones Jr., golf course architect.

Site of the 2016 U.S. Women's Open, PGA Cup, and Fry.com Open, CordeValle has catapulted from an unknown entity in 1999 to a world-class venue with a respected golf course.

"CordeValle is a golf sanctuary tucked into a box canyon in the golden hills of 'Old California.' With streams that crisscross the fairways, its par-5s have a hint of drama. Consider playing in the early morning or late afternoon as the sun dances across the hilltops. The shadows among the pastel of colors will make you pause," described Jones. "The resort is a 60-mile drive from Pebble Beach. In my opinion, there are very few reasons to leave the Monterey Peninsula for golf. CordeValle is the exception."

DID YOU KNOW? Following Mexican independence from Spain in 1821, the Santa Clara Valley of California was divided into ranchos. The CordeValle region was granted to Carlos Antonio Castro who focused on raising cattle for the hide and tallow trade, incorporating a soap factory and 500 acres of cultivated orchards, vineyards, and gardens.
