ORCHID ISLAND GOLF & BEACH CLUB

Its timeless architecture is a standout in the Florida market.

VERO BEACH, FLORIDA: British West Indies architecture migrated from British Caribbean colonies to Florida during the 19th century.

“The design focuses on the perfect ratio of indoor/outdoor living to take advantage of the cooling sea breeze,” said Scott Oberlink, broker-in-charge at Orchid Island. “This import of formal architecture blends well with the less formal attitudes of island living.”

Orchid Island, a member-owned and debt-free community, offers an Arnold Palmer designed golf course, eight Har-Tru tennis courts, a mile-long secluded beach, a heated pool with private cabanas, and three separate clubhouses: Golf Club, Beach Club, and Tennis & Wellness Center.

ORCHID ISLAND IS PROUD TO HOST THE 2018 U.S. SENIOR WOMEN’S AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP.

“Our clubhouses and residences highlight the best of British West Indies architecture throughout,” explained Oberlink. “Symmetry, warm colors, and batik fabrics complement luxurious modern elements. Our curb appeal is unmistakable and timeless.”

Orchid Island is one of the few private golf clubs in Florida to offer direct beach access. A brisk walk or golf cart ride delivers you to an Audubon certified golf course or prime surf fishing on the secluded beach.

“There are a lot of quality golf communities to choose from. During your due diligence, look beyond the amenities and ask yourself, ‘What is the personality of the club?’ After all, you are about to make a large investment,” advised Oberlink. “It is important to make sure your club will feel like home.” ■
