

The Mountain Course is known for its dramatic topography, glacier ponds, granite outcroppings, and wetlands. Its 11th hole has an elevation change equivalent to the height of a 50-story building.

The Glacier Club...Your Gateway To The High Country

DURANGO, COLORADO: Imagine waking up to sunrises over dappled snowy peaks or winding down to sunsets bathing panoramic vistas with hues of pink and orange. Think of fresh air that smells green and awakens your senses. Close your eyes and see yourself looking up and around at nature's untouched terrain. This is what awaits you at Glacier.

At Glacier, they celebrate community and value relationships. Calling Glacier home also means calling everyone you meet a friend. They are not only neighbors, they are golfing buddies, dinner guests, kids' play dates and tradition makers. Here, you'll never be a stranger.

Glacier Club is celebrating its Mountain Course that was completed to an 18-hole championship course in 2017. The guiding force behind the club is to utilize the property's greatest assets, which are its magnificent views, interesting topography and rock formations that design details for the course's strategy and playability. Hale Irwin and Todd Schoeder took great care in the design of the golf course to creatively utilize the existing features of the landscape to produce a layout that appears as though it has existed for generations, while at the same time respecting the history, and traditions of the game of golf. The golf course is carved through dramatic granite rock outcroppings defining the character of the course. Measuring over 7,000 yards from the tips, the par 71 course is designed not only to test the scratch player but also provide interest and challenge for players of all abilities.

LIFESTYLE MEMBERSHIPS
