

“Where Everybody Knows Your Name”

Haig Point provides the charm of island living.

DAUFUSKIE ISLAND, SOUTH CAROLINA (one mile off Hilton Head Island): Haig Point is a charming, private community with a footprint larger than Central Park in New York City, and is located one mile off the coast from the famed Harbour Town Lighthouse. With no bridge, ferries (running 18 times per day) provide transport to the barrier island.”

Sullivan family

“As a teenager, I interned in Haig Point’s golf department. It was a dream come true and validated my interest in a golf career,” explained Matt Sullivan, national member at Haig Point. “Life took me in a different direction and I became a successful tax accountant living in Denver.”

Married with one son and another on the way, Matt and his wife Julia took a babymoon to Haig Point as a celebratory vacation before the birth of their second child.

“Julia’s love of the island and my fond memories of Haig Point were the impetus to becoming national members. We even went a step further; we named our newborn Haig. The moment you step off the boat, your blood pressure drops and you are likely to be greeted by a smiling face. With deference to the hit sitcom Cheers, now, when we visit the community, it’s a place ‘where everybody knows your name,’” grinned Sullivan.

FROM AN ARCHITECT’S PERSPECTIVE

“Haig Point provides a wonderful sense of life, a pristine environment, and separates you from the turmoil in which we live,” expressed Rees Jones. “It’s hard to argue why you would want to be anywhere else than here. I’ve been fortunate to design golf courses at some of the greatest sites in the world and Haig Point is no exception. It’s not a surprise to see Haig Point on many ‘Top-100’ lists; it’s that good.”

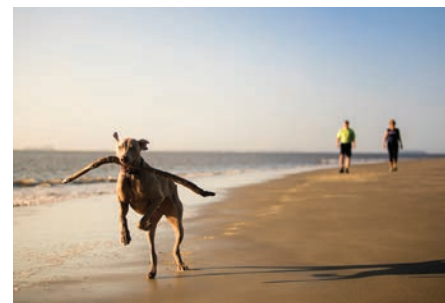

A CONTINUING LEGACY

“My wife and I look forward to providing the one of a kind accoutrements for our family that Haig Point offers,” concluded Sullivan. “Haig Point provides a safe environment on an island with abundant nature. Visits have given me an appreciation for wildlife from loggerhead turtle hatchling season to riding horseback on an uncrowded beach.” ■

The Strachan Mansion at Haig Point was built in 1910 on St. Simons Island, Georgia, as a summer retreat. In 1986, the residence was relocated to Haig Point and now serves as overnight accommodations for national members.

While it has been over 300 years since the Haig family has been part of the community, the name remains the foundation of its beginnings and the perfect home for generations to come.
