Sea Island is the only resort in the world to achieve four Forbes Five Stars 13 years in a row.

SEA ISLAND, GEORGIA: For the past century, a golf lesson involved range balls, a spot on the practice tee, and a golf professional.

“While at university in the 1980s, I remember what it was like to see my swing on a monitor,” recalled Suzy Whaley, past president of the PGA of America. “The loop of photos was kind of like using those photo booths popular at weddings. At the time it was revolutionary.”

Technology has advanced educational tools dramatically. Instructors have an almost overwhelming array of technology at their fingertips.

Justin currently works with Harris English, Brian Harman, Patton Kizzire, and Michael Thompson.

The Seaside Course, a Tom Fazio redesign of the 1929 classic by Harry S. Colt and Charles Alison, routinely ranks among the Top 100 courses in the U.S.

The Golf Performance Center is an impressive 17,000 square-foot facility that rivals the size of many private clubhouse facilities.

A COMPREHENSIVE APPROACH

The curriculum at the Sea Island Golf Performance Center covers six core competencies—long game, short game, putting, golf fitness, club fitting, and mental game—within a state-of-the-art facility with million-dollar views.

Justin Parsons, an elite instructor at Sea Island, has extensive experience in the world of golf. Originally from Northern Ireland, Justin spent 13 years in Dubai honing his skills. “My time in the United Arab Emirates provided the framework to deal with a kaleidoscope of personalities and cultures.”

Justin’s move to Sea Island rounds out a star-studded instructional team of more than a dozen professionals.

“Your time at the Golf Performance Center begins with a review and questioning that’s similar to what a doctor asks during a physical,” said Parsons.

“Our mission is to develop a game plan to make you play better and have more fun. Whether you are a 25 handicapper looking to get the ball in the air or a PGA TOUR player yearning to move up the FedEx Cup standings, our years of expertise and technology at our fingertips provide the framework for a better tomorrow.” ■
