

BOCA WEST

*Live the life you love.
Love the life you live.*

BOCA RATON, FLORIDA: When a railroad link was completed in 1896, Easterners up and down the coast discovered the countless benefits of living in the Sunshine State.

One of the first—and to this day one of the most sought after—private residential communities to be developed in the state is Boca West Country Club, located within a 30 minute drive of the Boca Raton, Fort Lauderdale, and Palm Beach airports and only a 45 minute drive from the Miami International Airport.

“Access is our strongest asset,” detailed Matthew Linderman, president, COO/GM at Boca West. “No other private golf community can match our range of activities and amenities. With four signature golf courses and soon to be 10 dining venues, it’s impossible to overlook our social calendar of over 800 events on and off property each year.

Philanthropy is a way of life at Boca West.

Each year, residents raise millions of dollars and donate 25,000+ hours of time to dozens of local charities. In fact, the Boca West Children’s Foundation has raised over $16 million in funds for local Palm Beach County children in need.

Our size gives us the ability to host exciting events of extraordinary scope. For example, our annual carnival that allows generations of members and their families to reunite, is a six-figure investment subsidized by the club.”

In the past decade and including the currently underway Sports Center Expansion, Boca West has invested north of $200 million in club facilities. Its new Lifestyle and Racquet Center as well as its new Aquatics Center are scheduled to open in the coming months, and the design team of Fry/Straka has been commissioned to assist with a new master plan for golf course improvements. “Their credentials are impressive,” lauded Matthew. “Erin Hills in Wisconsin [site of the 2017 US Open] and Calusa Pines in Naples are two of their tracks that have garnered worldwide praise.”

A BEAUTIFUL LOVE AFFAIR

With 55 residential villages located within Boca West, there are wide-ranging lifestyle options to suit your needs. “Our members have a genuine love of place. It brings new meaning to the idiom, ‘home is where the heart is,’” concluded Matthew. ■
