A Golfer's Paradise

The “Treasure of the Treasure Coast” is a natural haven for Florida golf enthusiasts.

PORT ST. LUCIE, FLORIDA: Tesoro Club, a premier golf and lifestyle community nestled amidst the beauty of Port St. Lucie, is experiencing a vibrant renaissance. Beyond its world-class golf course, racquet facilities, dining options, and luxurious clubhouse, it boasts an unparalleled setting, encompassing acres of pristine wetlands, lakes, and protected preserves.

“The connection to nature is a defining characteristic of the Tesoro Club experience,” said Matt Doyle, director of golf. “We have over two miles of elevated pathways that wind through our stunning natural environment, providing breathtaking views and attracting a diverse array of wildlife. It’s common to spot incredible birds and other fascinating creatures right here on the property—including a recently caught 40-inch tarpon in one of our ponds.”

The meticulously designed Palmer Course is thriving. Excitement is also building for plans to revitalize and reopen the Watson Course, further solidifying Tesoro Club’s reputation as a premier golf destination. “The Palmer Course is in fantastic condition,” added Doyle. “Given where we are now and where we’re headed in the near future, the value proposition for becoming a member is quite compelling.”

The heart of the community is the clubhouse, a testament to timeless elegance. “No expense was spared during its original construction,” noted Doyle. “Today, the clubhouse has been transformed into a truly exceptional space for members to relax and socialize.”

The energy is palpable and fills the air with excitement. Member rounds on the Palmer Course have seen a remarkable increase (up 94 percent in 2024),
