

CDA NATIONAL RESERVE

In Idaho's lake country, a private club that delivers escape and adventure.

COEUR D'ALENE, IDAHO: CDA National Reserve sits at the edge of Lake Coeur D'Alene. It's a picturesque setting and an enviable location, given the frequency with which the body of water is cited as one of the most beautiful lakes in the US. It's on these shores that you find a private golf and sporting community whose footprint spans 1,000 pristine acres. Not surprisingly, the club's focus is on outdoor living, wellness, and adventure. The clubhouse offers a refined dining experience, featuring phenomenal cuisine crafted with fresh, locally sourced ingredients in a seed-oil free kitchen.

Members enjoy exclusive access to championship golf, a fully appointed fitness center with sauna and cold plunge, a private marina and boating, and pursuits ranging from archery and trap shooting to mountain biking and hiking across the wooded expanse. The exceptional outdoor living is complemented by premium indoor living, including modern luxury residences and a selection of custom homesites.

There's an approachability at CDA National Reserve that's palpable. The elevated feel is never stuffy, and the staff is warm and intentional. It's a philosophy that's apparent in all aspects of the club. Members here value connection as much as they value friendly competition on the course. They also enjoy the increasingly rare privilege of wide-open spaces, fewer crowds, and a private Tom Weiskopf championship golf course with no tee times—play when you want, how you want. It's extraordinary considering that demand for private club communities is at its height.

Members recognize something different here. This is a home that feels like a destination. Within this vast natural environment, couples, families, and individuals find a true sense of escape without sacrificing authentic service, world-class golf, and myriad amenities and activities for all ages. It's a summer home that fits.

This year brings a new chapter for CDA National Reserve, and a unique offering—The Fairway Lodges. Situated along the 17th fairway, this collection of twenty-four custom homes looks to be a distinctive, elevated expression of North Idaho living. Phase one, delivering this summer, will welcome new members to a thriving private club community. ■

"With a pristine championship course, a vibrant and engaged membership, and thoughtfully curated amenities and programming, the club has truly come into its own. It stands today as one of the most compelling private club opportunities in the country."

— JOHN COCHRANE, CDA NATIONAL RESERVE, COO

Learn more about CDA National Reserve at CDANational.com.